SCWR 100-220: Introduction to Screenwriting

Winter, 2023

Online Asynchronous

Professor Brad Riddell (he/him): brad.riddell@depaul.edu

Zoom Office Hours: Tuesday 2-5PM, Wednesday 11AM-1PM and by appointment

Course Introduction:

When it comes to most narrative fiction filmmaking, everything begins with a script. Producers, directors, cinematographers, costume and production designers, sound people, and editors all encounter the screenplay at some point. My goal is that you come to understand the role of the screenwriter and the screenplay in the world of scripted narrative filmmaking, recognize the unique attributes of the screenplay that make it wholly unique in the world of creative writing, and develop beginning skills in screenwriting and story development. And, of course, I hope you have some fun!

Course Description:

This course is an introduction to and overview of the elements of theme, plot, character, and dialogue in dramatic writing for cinema. Emphasis is placed on telling a story in terms of action and the reality of characters. The difference between the literary and visual medium is explored through individual writing projects and group analysis. Films and scenes examined in this class will reflect creators and characters from a wide range of diverse backgrounds and intersectional identities. Development of a synopsis and outline for a short fictional screenplay: theme, plot, character, mise-en-scene and utilization of cinematic elements.

Learning Domain Description:

This course is included in the Liberal Studies program as a course with credit in the Arts and Literature domain. Courses in the Arts and Literature domain ask students to extend their knowledge and experience of the arts by developing their critical and reflective abilities. In these courses, students interpret and analyze particular creative works, investigate the relations of form and meaning and through critical and/or creative activity to come to experience art with greater openness, insight, and enjoyment. These courses focus on works of literature, art, theatre, or music as such, though the process of analysis may also include social and cultural issues. Students who take courses in this domain choose three courses from such choices as literature, the visual arts, media arts, music, and theater. No more than two courses can be chosen from one department or program.

Course Prerequisites: None

Course Outcomes:

In addition to completing several scene writing assignments and two quizzes, students are expected to develop, outline, write, and revise a short screenplay.

Learning Objectives:

Upon successful completion of this course students will be able to:

- employ standard screenplay format
- identify elements of scene craft, character development, and narrative structure
- demonstrate expanded visual writing skills
- identify how diverse backgrounds and perspectives uniquely affect story and character development
- apply a work-flow process to creative writing
- produce original writing projects on a deadline
- revise their writing based on feedback from the professor and their peers
- evaluate the work of their peers and formulate helpful feedback

Textbooks and Printed Resources

- "Tools of Screenwriting" by Howard & Mabley ISBN-10: 0312119089 (Required)
- "The Hollywood Standard" by Christopher Riley ISBN-10: 1932907637 (Required)

Screenwriting Software:

You will be required to use screenwriting software. FINAL DRAFT, FADE IN, HIGHLAND, WRITER'S DUET, and CELTX are options. Google Doc and Word templates exist, but they are terrible and will cause you more trouble than they are worth. WRITER'S DUET and HIGHLAND provide versions that are free for students.

Course Management:

This course is asynchronous, which means it will not meet in person and that all lectures, assignments, discussions, and workshops will be managed entirely on D2L.

I will be available on Zoom for office hours at the times listed above, and by special arrangement if needed, but all meetings are by appointment only. You can make an appointment by logging into Bluestar using the QuickLinks tab here. If my standard hours do not work for you, please send me an email to make arrangements.

My goal is for you to receive feedback on your assignments and discussion posts before your next assignment is due – generally within six days. I try to respond to emails as soon as possible but am slower on nights and weekends.

Assignments

Assignments will not be made available to you until you have submitted the previous assignment. For instance, Scene Assignment 2 won't be available until you have submitted Scene Assignment 1. This applies to quizzes and discussions as well.

Scene Assignments

You will write a total of four scene exercises. Specific guidelines for each exercise will be provided on D2L. Each scene assignment is 5% of your final grade (20% in total).

You are expected submit your scenes to the appropriate discussion board and submissions box. Please save files as a PDF, and use your last name and the name of the assignment: YourName.InterrogationScene.pdf

You will be graded on:

- Style and Format
- Creative execution of the assignment within the given parameters
- Use of writing techniques presented in class and the readings

There are rubrics on D2L associated with each scene assignment.

Quizzes

There is one syllabus quiz (5%) to ensure you are familiar with this document, then one quiz for the midterm and one as part of the final.

The midterm covers reading and discussion from The Hollywood Standard, and the final covers The Tools of Screenwriting. These will feature multiple choice, T/F, fill-in-the-blank, and short screenwriting tasks. Each quiz is worth 10 points (or 10%).

Group Feedback

Each student will be placed into a workshop group with three to five other students. Group assignments are located on D2L. You will be expected to provide feedback on each of your groupmates' screenwriting assignments. Feedback for each member of your group is worth two points (20% total). One point will be awarded for the thoroughness and thoughtfulness of your notes, and the other for inclusion of the skills, techniques, and terminology we have discussed in class.

Discussion Posts

Each week, I will post a discussion question or series of questions regarding topics from the lecture and/or the readings. Each of your response posts is worth two points (20% total). One will be awarded for the thoroughness and thoughtfulness of your response, and one will be awarded for creativity and originality.

There is a rubric on D2L associated with each discussion post.

Short Script

You will submit three loglines for potential short script projects, then two outline drafts for the project you select. The loglines and outlines will be ungraded, are required to progress in the course. I will provide feedback on the loglines and the revised outline, and your group will provide feedback on the first draft of the outline.

You will submit three drafts of your short script that is to be no longer than 12 pages. The first draft is worth five points (5%) and the final draft is worth ten points (10%). I will not grade or provide feedback on the second draft, but you will receive feedback from your group.

Here are some things to keep in mind:

- Show don't tell. Show don't tell. Show don't tell. Show don't tell.
- Spelling, grammar, and punctuation count - proofread your work, proofread it again, and then proofread it one more time just to be sure.
- Standard screenwriting formatting is required.
- You must include a properly formatted cover page.
- Re-read your narrative for clarity - it may be a good idea to have a friend look over the script as well.
- Action description should be lean - only revealing what can be heard/seen on screen.
- Develop a clear beginning, middle, and end.
- Avoid exposition-heavy dialogue - Always ask yourself, "Is there a way I can communicate this information visually?"
- Don't wait until the last minute. It takes time to develop a solid narrative - you won't be able to do it in one night and achieve the grade you want.

Short Script Second Draft

The final script is to be no longer than 12 pages. Points to consider:

- The second draft of your script should read as a marked improvement over your first effort. Correcting typos and making small tweaks is not a rewrite.

- Use notes you received from the instructor, classmates, and your own self-evaluation to craft your revised draft. Get outside opinions if you can.
- Characters, dialogue, structure, and scene work should be completely reevaluated and enhanced.
- Spelling, grammar, and punctuation count even more. Proofread again.

Short Script Final Draft

This draft should be 12 pages or less, error-free, and have addressed the feedback provided. It should represent your very best effort. Worth 10 points (10%).

There are rubrics on D2L associated with each script draft.

Students with Disabilities:

DePaul Students seeking disability-related accommodations are required to register with DePaul's Center for Students with Disabilities (CSD) enabling them to access accommodations and support services to assist with their success. There are two office locations: Loop Campus (312) 362-8002 , Lincoln Park Campus (773) 325-1677
Email: csd@depaul.edu

Students who register with the Center for Students with Disabilities are also invited to contact Dr. Gregory Moorhead, Director of the Center, privately to discuss how he may assist in facilitating the accommodations to be used in a course. This is best done early in the term. The conversation will remain confidential to the extent possible.

Please click here for Services and Contact Information.

Respecting Diversity and Inclusion:

At DePaul, our mission calls us to explore “what must be done” to respect the inherent dignity and identity of each person. We value diversity because it is part of our history, our traditions, and our future. We see diversity as an asset and a strength that adds to the richness of classroom learning. In my course, I strive to include diverse creators, perspectives, and teaching pedagogies. I also encourage open dialogue and spaces for students to express their unique identities and perspectives. I am open to having difficult conversations and I will strive to create an inclusive classroom that values all perspectives. If at any time, the classroom experience does not live up to this expectation, please feel free to contact me via email or during office hours.

Preferred Name & Gender Pronouns

Professional courtesy and sensitivity are especially important with respect to individuals and topics dealing with differences of race, culture, religion, politics, sexual orientation, gender, gender variance, and nationalities. I will gladly honor your request to address you by an alternate name or gender pronoun. Please advise me of this preference early in the quarter so that I may make appropriate changes to my records. Please also note that students may choose to identify within the University community with a preferred first name that differs from their legal name and may also update their gender. The preferred first name will appear in university related systems and documents except where the use of the legal name is necessitated or required by university business or legal need. For more information and instructions on how to do so, please see the Student Preferred Name and Gender Policy.

Creative Subject Matter and Civil Discourse:

DePaul is a community that thrives on open discourse that challenges students both intellectually and personally to be socially responsible leaders. Controversial or sensitive subject matter may find its way into our conversations. Students have every right to express themselves and address challenging issues in their work so long as that work does not seek to glorify or advocate for hate, violence, or discrimination, or involve the professor or a member of the class without their permission.

It is the right of class members to express how a student’s statements or creative work make them feel, and to do so respectfully and constructively. If you become uncomfortable with a conversation for any reason, you may be excused from further reading or commenting on that work. It is the expectation that all dialogue in this course will be civil and respectful of the dignity of each student. Any instances of disrespect or hostility will jeopardize a student’s ability to be successful in the course. The professor will partner with the Dean of Students to assist in managing such issues.

Trigger Warnings

The films, shows, clips, readings, lectures, student work, and class discussions in this course may engage deeply with potentially sensitive or traumatizing material, such as: violence, sexual assault/rape, sexism, racism, police brutality, transphobia, homophobia, abuse, suicide, blood, and body-shaming among other issues.

I will note especially graphic/intense content and will do my best to foster a classroom environment in which we can relate safely, courageously, compassionately, and contemplatively with difficult and important content each week.

In that spirit, I ask that you label potential triggers in your D2L submissions!

If you would like more specific or personalized triggers identified throughout the course (especially ones that are not named above), please e-mail me and I will do my best to flag them for you.

If you believe any piece of course content may be potentially triggering to you, I will happily search for replacement material that you may view or read instead.

Academic Policies:

All students are required to manage their class schedules each term in accordance with the deadlines for enrolling and withdrawing as indicated in the University Academic Calendar. Information on enrollment, withdrawal, grading, and incompletes can be found here.

Academic Integrity and Plagiarism:

This course will be subject to the academic integrity policy passed by faculty. More information can be found here. The university and school policy on plagiarism can be summarized as follows: students in this course should be aware of the strong sanctions that can be imposed against someone guilty of plagiarism. If proven, a charge of plagiarism could result in an automatic F in the course and possible expulsion. The strongest of sanctions will be imposed on anyone who submits as his/her own work any assignment which has been prepared by someone else. If you have any questions or doubts about what plagiarism entails or how to properly acknowledge source materials be sure to consult the instructor.

Changes to Syllabus:

This syllabus is subject to change as necessary during the quarter. If a change occurs, it will be thoroughly addressed during class, posted under Announcements in D2L, and students will be notified via email.

Copyright Statement:

The materials provided by the instructor in this course are for the use of the students enrolled in the course. Copyrighted course materials may not be further disseminated.

Online Course Evaluations:

Instructor and course evaluations provide valuable feedback that can improve teaching and learning. The greater the level of participation, the more useful the results. As students, you are in the unique position to view the instructor over time. Your comments about what works and what doesn't work can help faculty build on the elements of the course that are strong and improve those that are weak. Isolated comments from students and instructors' peers may also be helpful, but evaluation results based on high response rates may be statistically reliable (believable). As you experience this course and material, think about how your learning is impacted. Your honest opinions about your experience in and commitment to the course and your learning may help improve some components of the course for the next group of students. Positive comments also show the department chairs and college deans the commitment of your instructor to teaching, and these evaluation results are one component used in performance reviews (including salary raises and promotion/tenure). The evaluation of the instructor and course provides you an opportunity to make your voice heard on the quality of teaching at DePaul.

Withdrawal:

Students who withdraw from the course do so by using the Campus Connection system. Withdrawals processed via this system are effective the day on which they are made. Simply ceasing to attend, or notifying the instructor, or nonpayment of tuition, does not constitute an official withdrawal from class and will result in academic as well as financial penalty.

Retroactive Withdrawal:

This policy exists to assist students for whom extenuating circumstances prevented them from meeting the withdrawal deadline. During their college career students may be allowed one medical/personal administrative withdrawal and one college office administrative withdrawal, each for one or more courses in a single term. Repeated requests will not be considered. Submitting an appeal for retroactive withdrawal does not guarantee approval.

College office appeals for CDM students must be submitted online via MyCDM. The deadlines for submitting appeals are as follows:

Autumn Quarter: Last day of the last final exam of the subsequent winter quarter
 Winter Quarter: Last day of the last final exam of the subsequent spring quarter
 Spring Quarter: Last day of the last final exam of the subsequent autumn quarter
 Summer Terms: Last day of the last final exam of the subsequent autumn quarter

Incomplete:

An incomplete grade is a special, temporary grade that may be assigned by an instructor when unforeseeable circumstances prevent a student from completing course requirements by the end of the term and when otherwise the student had a record of satisfactory progress in the course. CDM policy requires the student to initiate the request for incomplete grade before the end of the term in which the course is taken. Prior to submitting the incomplete request, the student must discuss the circumstances with the instructor. Students may initiate the incomplete request process in MyCDM. All incomplete requests must be approved by the instructor of the course and a CDM Associate Dean. Only exceptional cases will receive such approval. If approved, students are required to complete all remaining course requirements independently in consultation with the instructor by the deadline indicated on the incomplete request form. By default, an incomplete grade will automatically change to a grade of F after two quarters have elapsed (excluding summer) unless another grade is recorded by the instructor. An incomplete grade does NOT grant the student permission to attend the same course in a future quarter.
